

Pup Play in Social Situations

Submitted by Kenneth on Sun, 12/31/2006 - 8:12pm

There are a great many similarities to the way bio-canines and human-dogs play, and there are also a great many differences. Throughout my research I have discovered some general guidelines for playing with other pups that might prove useful.

1. Human pups should not wear anything that could injure another pup while romping. Spiked collars, steel toed boots, etc. are out. They may look really, really great on the pup, but a huge scar on the face doesn't look good on other pups, and non-consensual bruises are never fun.
2. Make sure that there is a pup handler keeping an eye on each pup in the "Mosh Pit." One handler can probably handle 1-3 pups at a time, given His or Her experience with handling pups. This is useful in protecting vulnerable pups as well as calming down aggressive or rude pups.
For an interesting article on "Aggressive Dogs" Click Here
3. Handlers should read their pups. If there is another dog that they don't want to play with, the human-dog will communicate that through body language and/or vocally with growls, yips, and whimpers. However, if they are enjoying playing with another dog, they will also communicate that with body language and growls, yips, and whimpers. Learn your pup, so that you can tell the difference, and protect your pup from danger, that's the main reason you are there.
4. If a stray enters the play zone, it is important that all handlers keep an eye on him or her in relation to their own pup(s). A stray represents an unknown that could damage the other pups around him or her. Equally a stray could be a great deal of fun. The point is, that without paying attention, you never know which way it's going to go.
5. Handlers should not allow anything to distract them from what they are doing. Just as a Dom should never leave a sub tied up unattended, a Handler should never leave a pup in pup-space unattended. That is just asking for trouble.
6. A crowded dungeon, near the Mosh Pit may not be the best place for a human-pup to make the transition to pup-space. Find what works for Handler and pup, to make the experience most enjoyable.
7. Make sure that the pups playing are protected and safe, and wearing gear that feels comfortable to them. This could be tails, this could be pawmitts, this could be knee pads, or anything else that you may want to include. Beware of things that are too hard, or have sharp edges, see rule 1 above.
8. Handler and pup must be willing to share any toys they bring with the other pups in the Mosh Pit. Someone is eventually going to pick up a toy that isn't theirs and start playing with it. Hopefully when this happens it isn't someone else's favorite non-share toy. If you have non-share toys, please leave them in your room.
9. Figure out beforehand how the pup is going to be kept hydrated, and or fed. Romping takes a great deal of energy. Small easy to eat snacks and easily accessible water are a great benefit to a pup who doesn't want to leave pup-space to recharge.
10. Figure out before hand how the pup is going to use the restroom. Nobody likes cleaning up puppy poo, or mopping up a puddle, this is especially true when the pup who made the mess does not belong to the person cleaning it up. I suggest that the pup and Handler work out a signal, and then the handler take the pup to the restroom where he or she transitions out of pup-space enough to do his or her business, and then return to pup space before returning to the Mosh Pit.
11. Sexual Human-Pup/Handler interaction do not belong in a Mosh Pit. If that's your boat, fine, but do it away from the other human-pups. It has a tendency to throw other players out of space.

Please comment on this post if there is anything that you feel I have forgotten.

Tags: Pup Play

Lazy Pups

Submitted by pup mohawk on Mon, 09/17/2007 - 1:26pm

I have recently found out that puppies can be lazy, as well as attention whores. I was pupping out the other weekend after my Owner and i went and bought some toys. I had lots of fun; it was my first time eating from a doggie bowl as well as my first time wearing my pup paws. Well after playing with my new toys and trying to catch the cats, i wante to play with my Owner. He was busy eating and watching TV and not paying attention to his puppy. Well shoot, i was bored and fell asleep at his feet. I guess what i'm trying to say is that when there's nothing better to do, sleep!

Tags: Stories

can u tell more about the toys u played with, plz

i will like to know some more about the toys u play with

Submitted by avEved (not verified) on Thu, 03/13/2008 Login to post comments

- 11:43am.

Toys that we use

Squeaky toys are what we mostly have to play with. i haven't gotten used to chewing on things that are too fuzzy so the rubber toys are my favorite, plus rubber is easier to wash in the dish washer. When buying toys, be aware of how wide you are able to open your snout because it's no fun trying to play with a toy that you can't even grab. The best kinds are ones that have protruding parts or ropes.

Another thing for handlers to be aware of with squeaky toys is to just be conscious that you are getting a squeaky toy and whether or not you have the patience to hear "squeak, squeak, squeak, squeak, squeak, squeak, squeak, squeak..." for long periods of time, because you don't want to break a pup's heart by taking away its favorite squeaky toy, now do you?

:-)

- pup mohawk

Submitted by pup mohawk on Tue, 03/18/2008 - Login to post comments

9:55am.

Puppy behavior

Submitted by Anonymous on Wed, 12/19/2007 - 9:51am

One of the misconceptions that I am finding the local BDSM community has concerning puppy play in general, and more specifically, when My pup and I attend local functions, is that she does not behave how the others in Community think she should behave.

More than once, I have had to calmly explain that altho she is submissive to Me, she is a puppy, and will behave as a puppy, sometimes listening and doing what she is told immediately, sometimes ...not so quickly.

When she is fully in puppy mode, she is a puppy...behaves as one...thinks like one, you get my meaning. she is not a grown dog, she still has puppy behaviors...most of which do not fit in fully with the people in the more standard BDSM activities, even age play seems to be more understood by some than puppy play.

There are too few places that people can go to get quality information, humanfauna.com seemed like a decent place at start...and there is some info there, but it seems to be mainly online...as some of the people seem to choose animals to emulate that would be difficult at best to maintain. (seals, fish, crows...but to each there own)

Part of Me wishes that puppy play would become better understood, and perhaps in different parts of the Community or country it is, part of Me likes the idea that what I do, is special, and different than..."here, I will tie you up, beat you and then we can have sex".

I know I bounced around on topics a bit but....Any comments?

Tags: Pup Play

Good Topic

MDP,

Great Topic! And I think that You are right. I find myself constantly explaining puppy play, and people get confused. Typically they ask me: "Is that anything like furies?"

I love it (<--sarcastic) when people tell me or my boy what we are "Supposed to be" doing. Usually I delete their emails, but sometimes I say "You mind your subs, and I'll take care of mine."

It's unfortunate that you have to put up with people being rude to You and Your sub based on their own prejudices.

Best,

Sir Kenneth

A-PAH Supreme God ... er, I mean

A-PAH Owner

Submitted by Kenneth on Wed, 01/09/2008 - 11:22pm. Login to post comments

Cool Discovery

Submitted by Kenneth on Fri, 01/18/2008 - 12:53pm

I don't know how many of you have made this discovery yet, but there was a puppy basket at the silent auction at SWLC. One of the items in the basket was a box of Scooby Snacks Graham Crackers. They are bite sized, bone shaped, cinnamon flavored Graham Crackers. You can fit several perfectly in your pocket, and feed them to your puppy when it's being good.

I won that basket by the way, and my puppy got those snacks, as well as several hankies with bones and paw prints, and a new squeaky!

Sir Kenneth

A-PAH Owner

Tags: Pup Play

Southwest Leather Conference Mosh Pit

Submitted by Kenneth on Fri, 01/18/2008 - 12:54pm

I would like to post a follow up to my experience of my first public Mosh Pit, and what happened.

The Dungeon Party at SWLC was amazing to begin with, and made even more amazing by the fact that we had room to lay down our whole 9'x9' pup space. I took the pup in, and dressed him and let him play. There was another pup also playing in the space.

There were concerns expressed to some of the higher ups that having a pup pit in the Dungeon would be degrading to the pups, and we should not support that type of behavior. I guess it just goes to show that some people still don't get it.

After we started to play, people started to get it. I got several comments, during and after the play, from people who were watching, and enjoying the energy that my pup and I shared. They got to see what it was all about - not restriction and humiliation, but the absolute freedom my pup felt, because he had only two things on his mind, his Master's love for him, and Play!

At one point, a Master I know came over to me as asked if his slave could pet my puppy, and I gladly let her. It turns out, that the puppy energy reached out to her and did some soul healing in the brief moments that she played with my pup. We weren't even trying.

I did run into a problem this year, that I would like to rectify next year. In addition to the Space at the party, I would like to have an additional space somewhere else. I ran into many pups that did not have tickets to the party (and the party was sold out) who could not enjoy the Mosh Pit.

I am also going to work on class materials so that I can start to teach about pup play to the lay-leatherpeople.

Sir Kenneth
A-PAH Owner

Tags: Pup Play

Project I'm Working On

Submitted by Kenneth on Wed, 01/30/2008 - 12:28am

Pups and Handlers;

I am putting together a workshop that I will start teaching later this year. The workshop will be titled along the lines of "Why Pup Play: Demystifying Pup Play for the Non-Player" It is an attempt to bridge the gap between those who engage in pup play, and those who don't; 1 so they understand why people like acting like dogs; 2, to perhaps generate interest in our community; and 3, to increase exposure and access to our community so that those who want to play, can.

It would be arrogant of me to think that I am the authority on why we do what we do, so I am asking for your input.

1. Why are you drawn to pup play.
2. What makes pup-space, or pup-time special for you?
3. What rewarding, or extraordinary experiences have you had through pup play?
4. Have you had a negative experience that resulted from someone not understanding what you were doing and why?
5. If so, and you don't mind sharing, what was that experience?
6. Finish this sentence: "One thing I wish people would understand about pup play is ... "

Thank you for taking the time to get back to me on these things. When I incorporate your responses into my workshop, I will not use your name, information, and will attempt generalize so that you are not identified, unless you wish to be identified, in which case, I'll call you out in a room full of strangers.

*Pats and Puppy Treats*
Sir Kenneth
Mr. Cellblock Phoenix Leather 2008
A-PAH Owner

Tags: General

We are not exempt from discrimination

Submitted by Master Hawk on Tue, 02/05/2008 - 10:46pm

We enjoy our sexual lives and personal forms of expression, but it never stops discrimination from happening...

While looking up for some gear I stumbled on a news article in UK, I felt the need to post it to show others that we are not exempt from discrimination. A simple leash and collar is not enough reason to be treated unfairly or poorly. Feel free to read part of the story and click on the link to read the full story.

Dog-lead goths 'hounded off bus'
A goth who leads his girlfriend around with a dog lead and collar was stopped from getting on a bus amid fears for passenger safety, a bus firm confirmed passenger safety, a bus firm committed.

Dani Graves, 25, and his fiancée Tasha Maltby, 19, of Dewsbury, West Yorks, claim they have been discriminated against by bus firm Arriva Yorkshire.

The black-clad couple said they had been told to leave one bus and prevented from boarding another.

The bus firm said safety came first, but it was investigating the complaint. <!-- E SF -->

Mr Graves told BBC Look North: "We're used to strange looks, we're used to comments.

"But we didn't expect it from someone like that. They're providing a public service. We had our bus passes, we did everything that you are supposed to do to get on a bus."

To read the whole story copy and paste the link provided below.
http://news.bbc.co.uk/2/hi/uk\_news/england/bradford/7204543.stm

Master Hawk

Tags: Stories

I have seen this posted

I have seen this posted elsewhere. I am not sure what there is to say about it. One, the bus driver should not have gotten physical with them, or, for that matter asked them to leave the bus. There's just no need for that. On the other hand, when we act in ways that "go against the norm" and "the norm" takes objection, and is bigger, stronger, or in a position of power, we can expect that "the norm" will make our lives difficult.

I am not in any way advocating conformity. I am merely stating that the price we pay for our freedom is to constantly have that freedom challenged, and sometimes the challengers are in a position to actually beat us, and deny us that freedom. That's why it is so vital that we continue to fight for it!

Sir Kenneth
 Mr. Cellblock Phoenix Leather 2008
 A-PAH Owner

Submitted by Kenneth on Wed, 02/06/2008 - 2:51pm. Login to post comments

Puppy Bowl IV

Submitted by Kenneth on Fri, 02/08/2008 - 1:48am

This aired on Animal Planet. Apparently the whole show was a couple hours long, but they also have highlights on their website!

<http://animal.discovery.com/tv/puppy-bowl/video/video.html>

Tags: General

Puppy tails

Submitted by pup mohawk on Sun, 03/02/2008 - 1:28pm

i had some extra money this weekend and my Master/Trainer, Sir Kenneth, finally decided to let me get a puppy tail. i put it on and WOW! i've never felt so good in a long time and i know that i had the biggest grin on my face. Everyone in the store loved seeing me on all fours trying it out. It is true what is said about tails; it really makes you feel more complete as a pup, AND ITS SO FUN TO WAG!

If you can't tell, i am extremely excited about the whole ordeal. To let you know a little bit about it, it was made by Tuff Stuff Leather and is made of leather that can be formed to any curve you want and it snaps on to the crack strap on a leather jock. It is very HOT! And even hotter when worn under a kilt because the tip sticks out from under the back of the kilt. My Master took me along with him to the Southwest Leather Pride contest last night and it was so fun to wag it at everyone.

Anyways, i wanted to start a discussion of tails and how others have gotten theirs and how they felt when they got it. Feel free to share as much as you feel comfortable sharing. One thing i would like to say is that a tail is a must have for any pup.

Tags: Stories tails

that so cool

i never had a tail, but i have been puppy for some times, and i always feel that a tail missing, so i so happy for you

Submitted by avEved (not verified) on Thu, 03/13/2008 Login to post comments
- 11:36am.

Pictures in the Park

Submitted by Dave on Sat, 03/29/2008 - 8:27pm

We had an awesome time at the park. I wish I'd taken more pictures.

<http://www.flickr.com/gp/22727761@N05/3ZnaY8>

-Dave

IM/Y!: dropkickpuppie

Tags: General Pictures from the March picnic

Fun in the Park

It was a really good time and only a couple of people were terrorized by a rainbow colored UFO.

Submitted by pup master (not verified) on Fri, 04/04/2008 - 9:53am. Login to post comments

Thanks

Thank you so much Dave, the pictures are great!

Mr. Cellblock Phoenix Leather 2008
A-PAH Leader

Submitted by Kenneth on Tue, 04/01/2008 - 10:38am. Login to post comments

Pins, Patches, or Nothing?

Submitted by Kenneth on Fri, 04/04/2008 - 9:12am

As some of you already know, the pup and I have those marvelous leather vests made by Tuff Stuff. While I am not yet ready to give anyone permission to "wear our colors" in a full sized display of that nature, I do not have a problem with allowing members of the group to make their affiliation with the group known, if they would like.

Someone on the titleholders list asked where to get pins - and someone responded with a great site to get both pins and patches that can be sewn onto a vest or shirt.

The question is: Which would you prefer to wear? A pin, or a patch, or are you happy being affiliated with the group without an outward sign of affiliation? Or would you being embraced with the group instead an external sign of affection or needs you rather I get both and allow each person to chose.

My initial idea is to get both - and give one of each to each member, and have the rest available to the members to purchase at cost if they would like to give them away as friendship pins, or have one for each vest they wear, or whatever they want to do with them.

Go ahead and comment back with your thoughts.

My idea is to have the pin and patch both look like the patch on the back of our vests, but a smaller version.

Tags: General Pins or Patches?

pins and patches

Friendship pins have been something that we are loseing in the leather community, the pins were a way of letting other members know when they run into somebody thats got a friend in the group. Patches indicate that a person is a member of the orginazation. Traditional pin protocall pins are only given out by full members, but never given to someone that outright asks for one{>-)} they were traditionally given to the person as they were standing and the presenter was down at crotch level sit squat kneel whatever, next the presenter opened the fly and removed the tackle out of the way storing the apendage in ther mouth (have to keep it warm) the pin went inside the pant leg at @ the same place the head of the apendage will be returned to. put apengdage away close the barn door stand up and give kiss and hug as you run your thigh or knee into the pin making sure it is on securely. The screw back pins are the premium and actually stay on the best the clutch backs tend to be easily lost. Lanoye embalem has the best rep with the clausenay pins. I have there info at the Shop, they also do embroidered patches. Tuff Stuff will as we do with all other groups make the patches at@ our cost and not mark them up if the group decides on leather. For member name badges I recomend Nameplate distributors at @ 2700 W Thomas, they have done the member badges for UBL for many years. Jeffers

Submitted by Bear or Jeff on Sun, 04/20/2008 - Login to post comments
4:37pm.

I say allow each member the

I say allow each member the choice.

- pup mohawk

Submitted by pup mohawk on Sat, 04/05/2008 - Login to post comments
2:43pm.

Pins or Patches

I think Sir Kenneth's idea of a giving each member a choice is perfect. How much easier could it be.

Submitted by Bob on Fri, 04/04/2008 - 9:54am. Login to post comments

Woof Camp

Submitted by pup mohawk on Sat, 05/31/2008 - 10:52pm

So Woof Camp was awesome! It was my favorite part of IML when my handler/Sir and i visited Chicago last week. It was a sight to see, probably a hundred pups came through those doors and there was wrestling, playing, fighting, toys, Scooby Doo pinata, snacks, the whole works. I recommend everyone to try it out sometime, if you can make it to IML that is. You won't be disappointed. The Woof Camp website is supposed to have pictures of the party, the IML website (<http://www.imrl.com>) does have some, it is in the Friday night photo gallery.

Tags: Pup Play mosh pit pup parties

When Puppies Grow Old

Submitted by puppy Peaches on Tue, 07/08/2008 - 5:49pm

I was at Sir Kenneth's Pup Play discussion last night at Apex. Every once in a while my eyes kept tearing up, especially at the end when pups were playing. I can't play anymore. Even the thought of playing scares me, because a combination of old age, myofascial pain, and fibromyalgia has me in so much pain it's difficult just to walk. But that's my body, not my mind or my heart. There was a point where a lady next to me was holding a football-shaped squeaky toy behind her back so that her pup couldn't get it. It was within 2 feet of me. Boy, did I ever want to lunge over, bite it away from her, and run away with it. But I knew that if I tried, I might not even make it to the 'bite it away from her' part before collapsing.

I fantasized for a while - not playing - but being up there with the rest of the pups - sitting next to someone and getting my head scratched. A treat would be nice, too. But based on the rambunctious nature of the other pups up there, I figured I'd be desiccated before I got to a safe spot.

My doctor says that, once some extreme stress, which I have been under for some months, has abated (in early October), then the overwhelming pain will also abate. That would be nice. No. That would be fan-fucking-tastic! Maybe I'll find out that I'm not too old to play.

But, the fact still remains that all young puppies become old puppies, and is there really any room for old puppies in the world of 'puppy play'?

Licks and snuggles,

puppy Peaches (aka slave velvet)

Tags: Pup Play When Puppies Grow Old

My Pup

My Pup is also my best friend. He is going to be 13 in human years this November. He started having trouble going upstairs about a year ago. So When he tells me he was to go, (and he really does know how to tell me), I carry him. He has slipped twice coming down, so now he knows he has to wait for me to go first and wait for him, and I spot for him at the bottom, to insure he doesn't fall. He can't run after his favorite ball, very well any more. And can only play for 5 minutes at a time now instead of endless hours. Some mornings he doesn't feel like eating at his dish, so I bring it to him and sit with him and stroke his back while he eats what ever he feels like eating. Then I reassure him he did a great job, and give him his cookie for desert. He is my best friend, and he can have anything he wants, within my power to give him. When I was sick ten years ago, and needed oxygen at night, every night, to keep breathing, while I was asleep, he would wake me however many times during the night, when that god awful contraption would malfunction, and he would not hear me breathing correctly. He would come over and nudge me awake. EVERY TIME. So, I owe him my life, a bunch of times. He did this for three years! Now, he is four pawed, tail wagging, Shetland Sheep Dog. He is not a two legged pup, but some of them are my friends too, and some of them do some pretty wonderful things for a lot of us, and as time goes on, and they start to slow down a little and not move as fast, We should all remember all the wonderful things that our pups, and the pups that belong to our friends, have done for us, and for others in our community, and we should do whatever is needed to insure that they get to go where they want, eat what they want, and be included every single time they want. And the same unconditional love that they have offered to us during their younger more active days, should now be given back in the same unconditional maner that THEY taught us, all those years ago. And maybe, just maybe....this could even be extended to those of us in the community that don't actually identify as pups but perhaps it should be how we treat everyone?

Koko's Daddy.

Submitted by Bob on Wed, 09/24/2008 - 6:43pm.

Login to post comments

It breaks my heart a little

It breaks my heart a little bit to read this, and I wish that there was something I could do. There is certainly a place for aged pups in our community, they just need more tender loving care than some other pups.

Many pups are broken, in various ways. Some pups have been damaged mentally, and need that TLC, some have been damaged Spiritually, and need that TLC, some have been damaged Physically. It does not make them any less of a pup, or mean that they deserve to have their pup ignored, it means extra care and caution when handling these pups.

In my world, all pups are valuable, and all pups should have the love and care that they need. puppy Peaches, if you ever want scritchies, just walk up to me and put my hand on your head, and I'll scritch. If I have treats and you want one, bark once, and I'll come to you.

Submitted by Kenneth on Thu, 07/10/2008 - 11:30am. Login to post comments

Heavenly scritchies

Thank you for the offer of scritchies and treats, Sir Kenneth. I will certainly be taking you up on it. Scritchies are an instantaneous transport to nirvana for me. (And I'll quit with all the glitter; I guess I was a hazard zone tonight for anyone who got near me.)

puppy Peaches

Submitted by puppy Peaches on Sat, 07/19/2008 - 12:30am. Login to post comments

CANCELLED: September Event - Camping

Submitted by Kenneth on Fri, 07/11/2008 - 1:21pm

Hm. Where did September go? Oh, there it is. Behind me! For those who don't know, we've been moving, setting up house, starting school, and getting ready for out of town events, as well as trying to fulfill responsibilities to other groups and organizations. As a result, the month of September slipped away. We will get to work on scheduling an event soon!

One of the suggestions for a September Event was to get as many people together as we could to go camping somewhere up north. Since I am not familiar with campgrounds and acceptable camping places up in that area, I thought that I would solicit suggestions from everyone else. I hope this works.

I prefer my camping to be as primitive as possible. Maybe there is a picnic table, maybe there is a steel grill over the fire pit, but maybe not. Perhaps we have to sit on rocks and hold our paper plates in our laps to eat, and our "bench" is a log that's laying on the ground.

I prefer my camping to be as private as possible. It would be very nice to find a place where we could do a little outdoor puppy play without offending anyone. It would also be nice if I could stumble out of my tent and water a tree late at night or early in the morning, without taking the time to get dressed, without worrying about offending anyone.

I like nature. The more nature, the better, as far as I am concerned. Too many other people in the area, is not nature for me. Too many amenities, and it's not nature for me. If the directions to the campground include: "Turn off the paved road" or "Continue past the end of the pavement" it might be natural enough for me.

(Speaking of natural: I like to be natural in nature. If anyone knows of a place to do that without adhering to the strict "No lewd behavior or contact" that most naturalist places enforce, that would be excellent!)

I like fire. Fire is good. If we can have a fire, that's even better.

So, tell me what you think, and whether you know of a place where we can get away with all this! Places where it's legal to camp, but aren't considered "Campgrounds" would be VERY good.

Tags: General

Camp Out

The sight the UBL and the Bears used is nice it will be chilly up there it is schnebly hill road it is undeveloped area fires ok in fire pits, nude sunbathing on cliffs above sedona and lol only disturbances are occasional jeep tours that off road near where we gwnerally set up, give the touristes a thrill seing a naked man / bear in the woods. another nice thing is we can get a porta john delivered from one of the services out of Flag will run @ 2-250 but if tjiy have 15 20 people it makes a real nice addition to the weekend.

It is national forest so nudity is acceptable and leagle. I can volintear the 2 burner cook stove that the UBL bought. I would recomed that this be a payed run to cover costs, meals that were generally done were breakfasts and a dinner drop the lunches as most are out and about durring day.

For pup's heavy Work gloves and industrial off road knee pads recomended, lots of cracked shist granit and sand stone up there. another option is the cave creek group sight that is @ an hr up cave creek road oncew past cave creek. it is a reserved only group sight, not sure if it is avabile yet as there was a fire up there 6 yrs ago. It has a ramada tables vault toylet as perm amenities. is @400 feet from road but a wash seperates the camp from other areas, as far as wood gose it would need to be hauled out

Submitted by Bear or Jeff on Sun, 07/13/2008 - Login to post comments
4:52pm.

Preditor "top" Allert

Submitted by Bear or Jeff on Tue, 08/26/2008 - 11:57pm

There is somebody portraying himself as A Sir/Top Handler here in Phx. He gets a boy over strips him locks a shock collar on and then into a cage the boy goes the jerk leaves the garage/ room, turns out the lights and shocks the boy irregularly 15 to 40 min between, for 45 sec to 2 min this takes place all night in the Morning the colar is unlocked the clothes thrown at the boy and kicked out. One Of My Pups had this happen and today at the Shop Heard the same stort from another Top that is rebuilding a different shattered boy. I can not get good info from my Pup it was bad enough that he gets suicidal when he tries to think about it.

Anyone with More info please contact me at jjbearphx@aol.com or at Tuff Stuff Leather 602 254 9651. I will be contacting a Phx PD Detective That is Involved with Gay Leason as well as Bias crimes. Better the PD remove the animal than the Tops that are rebuilding broken boys get him.

Please Put the word out outside the group we have a lose nut, A bad experience is one thing an accident in an election year gives the right wing witches to hunt and burn.

Jeffers Aka Bear

Tags: General Dangerous Player

Please update us if you get

Please update us if you get any new information.

Thank you,

Submitted by pup mohawk on Mon, 09/15/2008 - Login to post comments
10:47pm.

Thank you

Thank you for posting this Jeffers, and trying to keep our pups safe. One thing that the straight community does that I've noticed lacking in the gay community is "safe calls" and/or getting references about people they want to play with.

From what I understand, dog shock collars should not be used on human pups. It puts the contact points too close to the brain stem, and can leave a pup permanently damaged.

While the rest of the scene sounds like a fun one, it isn't fun if not done with respect. At least for the bottom consent. At least for the bottom.

On that note, what are the bottoms doing letting themselves get INTO these situations? Haven't there been enough accidents that the bottoms would learn to look before they leap, and think with their heads and not their dicks? Apparently not.

Going to the police with all the vague information might not do anything constructive, unfortunately.

Submitted by Kenneth on Wed, 08/27/2008 - 8:54am. Login to post comments

Re Predator Allert

As I understand this person is only targeting young or inexperienced to Novice boys. He dose not contact experienced players. True Predatory practices go after the weakest of the tribe. Without major Rape counseling and him being here 24/7 with me. my pup will never sort this experience out, right now it is a PTSD festering mental wound.

He is actually afraid to meet any of this group or any of my friends incase .....

Big BearDog hugs Jeffers

Submitted by Bear or Jeff on Wed, 09/24/2008 - 7:18pm. Login to post comments

Request from Phoenix Area Store

Submitted by Kenneth on Wed, 09/24/2008 - 3:17pm

All: I recieved the following email from one of the owners of "Fetish Alive" a new consignment store in town. If anyone is interested in this event, please contact them directly. I am merely passing on the information as I am not familiar with the store or the people running the store. mohawk and I are out of town that weekend.

Thank you for responding. On Friday October 17 we are having our first gala event at the store and we are looking to have as many of the different fetish or role play styles as possible. We have a pony, ABDL, latex among others. I would love to have a puppy there also. We are hoping to have people be able to come and meet these folks as well as our consigners to ask questions and see what is avialable for people. I would be honored if you and if you have one your handler at the event.

I would also be interested in hosting a series of classes on puppy play. Jared Keen

fetishalivestore.com

PS: He apparently thought that by saying I was into puppy play, I meant that I was the puppy. Ah confusion, it's great isn't it?

Tags: General

Is anyone doing this?

Is anyone doing this?

Submitted by Kenneth on Wed, 10/01/2008 - 9:50am. Login to post comments

W00t! Exhibitionism and

W00t! Exhibitionism and outreach sounds like fun!

Anybody else thinking about going? I'll see you at bar night, we can figure something out.

Submitted by Dave on Thu, 10/09/2008 - 9:45am. Login to post comments

Arizona Fetish Ball

Submitted by Bear or Jeff on Sat, 10/04/2008 - 8:02am

Saturday Oct 11 at The Venue of Scottsdale.

It is an all out everything under the sun as long as your bar legal event, 18 to play 21 to party. I will be there with as a vendor for Tuff Stuff, There are several quality vendors that show up with real fetish gear and equipment. tickets can be gotten presale or at the door.

It is a great chance to gear up grab the leashes and go party and we will not be the only freaks in the building for a change. WOOF

See You there and pup hugs Bear

<http://www.azfetishball.com>

Tags: General Next Saturday Night

January Social?

Submitted by Kenneth on Tue, 10/28/2008 - 9:46am

Does anyone want to put together a Non-Bar Social for the Pups?

Tags: General

I'd be game! I've been into

I'd be game! I've been into this dynamic for a while but I've never really gotten into the 'public' scene, though I'd really like to... I'd also like to meet with like-minded people, as the above poster said...

Submitted by Bates on Fri, 01/02/2009 - 9:15pm. Login to post comments

Jan. Social.

Yes. Interested. I'm just venturing into the Pup / Master world and I'm interested in meeting like minded people.

Submitted by Pup Uniq on Mon, 12/22/2008 - 6:22pm. Login to post comments

Group Outing WANNA CLIMB??

Submitted by Bob on Thu, 06/25/2009 - 8:28am

I need to know if we can get a group of 20 or more that would be interested in an outing to the rock gym. You guys have all seen the indoor gyms, with the man made rock walls for climbing....It is reasonably safe (I don't think they have ever lost anyone), the staff is very nice, and if we can get 20 or more, we can have the entire place to ourselves. The cost per person would be only $13.00 I am more concerned at this point about how many people would be interested in attending, so even if you really want to go, and can't scrape the $13.00 together, let me know that....message me off line if you prefer. We would love to have everyone, and I will do my best to make it happen. This is a really nice place over in Tempe, and I have been there with MasterHawk, and if you can believe it, I trusted him EVEN MORE when we left! (I didn't think that was possible). So, message me back with your interest, and I will take it from there. We are going to shoot for a Saturday, but I will do the best I can.

Respectfully,

Bob Weber

Mr. Phoenix Leather 2009

Tags: General Group Outing